

Abstract of the Disclosure

Process information for indicating the content of a process in each system can be recorded in a storage medium that is shared by a plurality of systems in an electronic data interchange process in a format such that the process histories of the systems can be tracked. The process histories between the systems can be tracked by searching for the recorded information.